INTERIM & PROJECT MANAGEMENT IN CHINA

Let executives steer your China business “on-demand”

Getting the right managers in or to China is becoming a prolonged and unplannable challenge for foreign companies in China. Amplified by China’s travel restrictions and quarantine requirements, what used to be a temporary management vacuum, is now the new normal. Although the demand for temporary managers in China remains unchanged, executives/key personnel can no longer be quickly deployed from overseas to support the local entities.

In autumn 2021, 43% of surveyed VDMA member companies indicated that the difficulty of getting foreign executives and managers into the country is impacting their business negatively. In a similar study conducted by the global German Chamber network, up to 85% of enterprises are facing the same challenge – making it the No. 1 Concern of MNCs operating in China overall.

As the global pandemic is nowhere near its end, China’s current policy on travel restrictions is unlikely to improve significantly in the next months and latest news even indicate that the 2022 will not be the year for China to re-open its borders. Hence, EAC China is offering access to executives in China – from C-Suite interims engagements to on the ground project management support.
